Falco Pulse — One Interface. Total Visibility

Any ERP or SaaS may be powerful, but how visible is it?

For most manufacturing teams, getting a quick sense of what's happening means clicking through multiple screens, remembering access rights, or waiting for someone to escalate a task. Information gets lost. Alerts get buried. To-dos fall through the cracks.

This is where Falco Pulse changes everything

Falco Pulse is your single interface — a unified gateway that shows you everything you need to know across your Falco system in one glance. No more hunting through menus. No more missed actions.

What's Broken in Traditional ERPs or SaaS Systems?

- ❖ No single dashboard that reflects your entire operational footprint.
- ❖ Alerts get lost in email clutter or go to people who aren't accountable.
- ❖ To-do lists are fragmented across modules, leading to duplication and oversight.
- ❖ Users don't know what they can access until they try — and often fail.
- ❖ Admins struggle to track system use and user clarity

Falco Pulse: A Single Gateway to Falco

❖ One clean interface for all operational alerts and personal to-dos.
❖ A view of individual user access — know exactly what modules and menus you can work with.
❖ Insight into one's own profile, hierarchy, and roles — reducing confusion.
❖ A central access panel that minimizes back-and-forth across modules.
❖ Visibility for managers and admins to spot bottlenecks early.

Key Features

"My Profile" tab that reflects your role, team, geography, and reporting lines

"Access View" showing what modules and menus you're permitted to enter.

"My To-Dos" — centralized actionable tasks pulled from across Falco modules

My Alerts" — role-based notifications that ensure the right person sees what matters

Smart Cards — quick access blocks that reflect pending tasks, recent activity, or escalations

One consistent interface across web and mobile

Secure and context-driven — users only see what's relevant to them

Why it Matters?

Falco Pulse doesn't replace modules — it empowers users to navigate them better. Think of it as the central nervous system of your Falco SaaS. It doesn't just tell you what's wrong — it shows you where to act.

In fast-paced manufacturing environments, the real threat isn't incompetence — it's invisibility. You can't fix what you can't see.

Falco Pulse helps every user — from the plant floor to the corporate desk — stay informed, aligned, and action-ready. No confusion. No missed steps.

It's not just user-friendly — it's user-enabling.